FAIR HOUSING WORKSHOP & FORUM

"This year marks the 40th anniversary of the adoption of the Fair Housing Act as part of the 1968 Civil Rights Act. The goal of the Fair Housing Act is to make sure that discrimination no longer exists. Some housing discrimination violations take place because people are unaware of fair housing laws.

Others are deliberate acts of discrimination. Whatever the reason, we are working toward the day when fair housing in Arizona is no longer a goal but a reality."

Arizona Attorney General
Terry Goddard

"It is critical that consumers, real estate professionals and regulators be knowledgeable about Fair Housing and those activities which are illegal under the Fair Housing Act. Education is our most effective tool to prevent unintentional violations and to arm the public against those who intentionally discriminate against others."

Sam Wercinski, Arizona Real Estate
Commissioner
